OBITUARY

The end news was passed around on Friday evening that Annie May, beloved wife of William H. Heffernan, had expired at the age of 57 years, 4 months and 18 days.

Mrs. Heffernan has been suffering acutely for some years with complications which more recently turned out to be cancer. The best of medical skill and nursing were procured but in spite of all that could be done she failed to recover.

Deceased was a native of Penetanguishene, Ontario. In middle life she accompanied her husband west and settled at Maclean where they lived for fourteen years prior to moving to Wainwright. Here they have resided since 1923.

Their union was blessed with four children. One son, Berke, who now resides with his father in the Pool Hall, has three daughters; Mrs. W. Goulet, Mrs. Jack Alderman and Mrs. M. Stang, all of Wainwright. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon at the Church of the Holy Sacrament, and was later being conveyed to Wainwright Cemetery for burial.

The casket was covered with wreaths and sprays of flowers from friends of the departed one.

Surviving are: W. S. Goulet, J. Stang, J. Stang, J. Alderman, J. Heffernan, and J. Little, of Gravel.

A long cortege of friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

The surviving relatives have the sympathy of a large number of friends in their bereavement.

BRISTON—Thirteen years ago Mrs. Ellen Tomalin, widow, now aged 70, underwent an operation for appendicitis which was completely successful, and she was able to go about her work as usual. Of late, however, she complained of slight internal pains, and an X-ray examination, revealed a pair of artery forceps which must have been in her body since the operation in 1921. The forceps were removed by an operation, under which the patient died.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—With a few minor exceptions, the age of entry into unemployment benefits was lowered on September 2nd. All persons 14 years of age or over who are working for an employer are insurable unless they are either employed in agriculture, employed in domestic service in private households, or receiving no wages.

The weekly rate of contribution payable by employers for each boy or girl under the age of 16 is eight cents, of which four cents may be deducted from the week's wages.

"The conception of so-called woman's equality is a product of decadent Jewish intellectualism," declared Chancellor Hitler of Germany addressing a great audience of Nazi women at Nuremberg last Saturday. The remarkable thing was that the German women received this statement definitely reducing them to an inferior status with frantic applause.

Hitler said equality of women with men was not Jewish, but unworthy of the German frau. "The Nazi program for women," he stated, "has but one point—the child. While man makes the supreme sacrifices on the field of battle, woman fights her supreme battle for her nation when she gives her life to a child."

Bank of Canada Shares on Market

Shares of the Bank of Canada to the amount of $5,000,000 are offered for public subscription by Honorable Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. The shares are at $50.00 each and are offered at par. Not more than 50 shares may be held by any one person and only persons who are British subjects or ordinarily resident in Canada or Canadian corporations controlled in Canada, may own stock. These provisions will ensure a wide-spread interest in all parts of Canada in the sale of the stock of an institution to which Parliament has entrusted wide powers and responsibilities affecting the financial and economical welfare of Canada.

The Bank is authorized to pay cumulative dividends from its profits after provision for expenses, depreciation, etc., at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent per annum, payable half-yearly which is considered to be an attractive return in comparison with ruling interest rates on high grade securities. Surplus profits are to be applied to the rest fund of the Bank paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund as provided by the Bank of Canada Act.

The subscription list will open on September 17th and close on or before September 21st. The shares are being offered simultaneously in every part of Canada on the 17th instant and whether or not the list is closed before September 21st, consideration will be given to all applications posted not later than midnight of the day on which the list is closed.

Subscriptions are to be mailed direct to the Minister of Finance, Ottawa, and must be accompanied by an initial payment of $15.00 for declaration which forms part of the application form, evidencing the eligibility of the applicant to become a shareholder. The balance of the subscription price, $35.00, a share, will be payable on January 2nd, 1935 on about which date the Bank is expected to commence operations.

The official prospectus and application forms are obtainable from post offices, banks and other financial institutions.

One of the important functions to be performed by shareholders is the election of seven directors who, with the Governor and Deputy Governor of the Bank, form the Board of Directors who will supervise and control the conduct of the business of the Bank. The seven directors are to be elected from diversified occupations, as follows:

Two, whose chief occupation is in primary industry;

Two, whose chief occupation is in commerce or manufacturing;

Three, whose chief occupation is other than in primary industry or commerce or manufacturing.

In the by-laws of the Bank, which have recently been promulgated by the Governor in Council, provision is made for the nomination of directors by shareholders and for not less than 50 nominations to be mailed to each shareholder prior to the shareholders' meeting. For the convenience of those who cannot attend meetings, provision is made for the registration of their votes in accordance with written instructions which they may give to the Minister of Finance.

One of the first steps to be taken in the organization of the Bank, after the stock has been subscribed, will be the nomination and election by shareholders of the first Board of Directors.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON CLASSIC DRAMA

"THE SILVER DOLLAR"

At Theatre This Week Thursday Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Here is something dramatically new in the line of talking picture entertainment. It's the kind of distinctly American story that held the undivided interest of a large preview audience.

It is a combination of epoch-making historical events and the part that unrealistic men and women played in those fascinating incidents. It is expertly directed, superbly acted, with Edward G. Robinson giving what is undoubtedly the best performance in his career, and with Alene McMahon and Bebe Daniels contributing touches of human interest and glamour that should win the favor of everyone.

It is both highly dramatic and whimsically comic and through it all runs a thread of exciting suspense. Taking the days when the country was looking for gold in the Rockies when Devel was St. Charles and before the great silver strike was made at Leadville, it pictures the spectacular creation of sudden fortunes, when poor miners became millionaires almost overnight.

Against it all the character of Robinson, first a prospector, always searching for the "will o' the whisp" always failing, but never becoming discouraged.

There is plenty of entertainment of all kinds in this dramatic story. It should stir the imaginations of adults, particularly the older generations who remember the exciting days it recalls. As a chapter of one of the most important periods of American history, it should appeal to those of your patrons to whom the thrilling story of western development is something more than the dry detail of statistics. As a story of a man and his ambitions, it is packed with romance, drama, and whimsical comedy. Also it is a picture that children will enjoy in which contacts with schools of all grades can and should be made.

Russia And The League Of Nations

Soviet Russia having applied for admission into the League of Nations, the burning topic at Geneva and in many of the European capitals is whether that application should be approved or rejected? Russia has the powerful support of Great Britain, France and Italy, as well as of some other countries, but is opposed by a number of the smaller nations, including, so it is reported, Belgium, Poland and Greece, while Switzerland, the home of the League, is said to be sharply divided on the question. The London Times has expressed the belief that Canada and Ireland will line up with the opposition.

Unless unanimity can be reached through advance negotiations and conferences, the forthcoming meeting of the General Assembly of the League will be the scene of an animated, possibly bitter, debate, with the further possibility of the failure of Russia's application because an unanimous decision cannot be reached. It looks like a knotty problem to solve, yet most people in this country would be inclined to regard it as a very simple one.

It is not necessary to recite the reasons which led to the establishment of the League of Nations, nor to set forth its aims and objectives. Its very name implies that it was the intention of the founders that it should include not some nations, but all nations. As long as certain nations remain outside its membership, the League is not as strong as it should be. It is weakened by the absence of even one nation. In the past one of its great weaknesses has resulted from the refusal of the United States to join, plus Russia's absence, and the early stipulation that barred Germany. Now that Russia is willing to come in, why refuse to permit it?

The only answer forthcoming is that the Government of Russia is Communist. Premier Tsaldaris of Greece is reported as saying that he will vote against Russia's election to membership on the ground that it would sanction International Communism. This may be offered as an excuse, but surely it is not a valid one for exclusion.

Italy is a member of the League, but that does not constitute sanction of International Communism by the other nations of the world. Other nations may set up or bow to dictatorships or other forms of autocratic government, some might turn socialist, others become more and more democratic, and others again return to absolute monarchies. Such developments are the right and privilege of the people of the nations concerned, but they do not constitute reasons why they should be treated as outlaws among the nations of the world.

The people of any country have the sole right to determine their own form of government—that which in their opinion is best suited to their particular conditions or state of development. This is one of the fundamental principles underlying the structure of the League of Nations, namely, self-determination of peoples and nations. Failure to recognize it, and give effect to it, would quickly destroy the usefulness of the League and ultimately destroy the League itself as an organization.

There are times when, following internal upheavals and revolutions, a nation may lose the diplomatic recognition of other nations, but this is largely because the fact is not clearly established as to which of the contending groups really enjoys the support of the people in such country and can therefore be safely recognized as "the Government". But when a Government once becomes established, recognition of it by other nations as a rule quickly follows. The reason it came into being, its principles and policies are a matter for its own people to approve or disapprove, and recognition by other nations does not necessarily imply approval.

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Russia) has an established form of government; it has had for years. It is recognized by most of the other nations. Agreeably or otherwise, it is accepted by the Russian people. What reason is there, then, why Russia should not be recognized by the nations acting jointly through the League of Nations and full membership in that body be granted to it? It is silly to argue that the granting of such membership in the League is to sanction International Communism. One might as well argue that to now admit the United States would be to give international sanction to all the policies and implications of Roosevelt's "New Deal", or in the case of Germany to place the stamp of approval on Hitler and his National Socialist program.

Regardless of what one may think of Russian Socialism and the policies and methods of the Soviet Government, and quite opposed as one may be to the introduction of similar policies and methods into their own country, people the world over should wish Russia well. It is far better for the world that Russia should succeed and not fail in its experiment, and certainly it would be unchristian and cruel towards the Russian people to desire failure. Even though the Russian system may not be desired nor prove beneficial elsewhere, it may suit Russia in its present state of development.

The best way to promote international understanding and goodwill, and thus promote the cause of peace, is for the nations to get together—the closer the better. And the best way yet devised for such getting-together is in the General Assembly of the League of Nations. Therefore, let every nation in who is willing to join, and do everything possible to bring in those which presently are averse to joining.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic
Cramps and Stomach Pains

Prompt treatment with Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in such cases relieves the pains, checks the looseness of the bowels, and thus does away with the suffering, the weakness, and oftentimes the collapse associated with attacks of this kind.

It does this by checking the too frequent and irritating stools, settling the stomach, and bracing up the weakened system, thus making it a remedy for the treatment of the complaints of both young and old.

Famed Racing Husky Dead

St. Godard Meets Loss Of Nine-Year-Old Team Leader

Emil St. Godard, world champion dog racer, mourns the death of his gallant leader Toby, one of the greatest dogs that ever stepped in harness.

Toby died at Teherborough, New Hampshire, the veteran of six years, across the continent suddenly suffered stomach trouble, and although three doctors worked on him they failed to save his life.

Toby was nine years old. He was part husky and part greyhound, a combination of stayer power and speed. He was raised in the St. Godard kennels and won 28 long distance classics.

Toby led the St. Godard string in six of the grueling 800-mile derbies between The Fox and Elm Farm. He was also well known to sportsmen in Ottawa, Quebec and New Hampshire.

It's tough all right," said Emil, when friends heard the news. "Toby was a wonderful dog. I intended to leave him in August to start training again in New Hampshire. I will have to train a new lead. I have several of Toby's pups at the ranch and expect to work one of them in Toby's place."

DOCTOR SAID SHE MUST REDUCE

Fat a Danger to Her Heart

Overweight is not merely a matter of appearance, it affects health, too. Excess fat robs the system of energy—the internal organs grow lax and slow down under the burden—much undue strain is put on the heart. Here is an instance. A woman writes:

"I have been treated by specialists, who tried to reduce my weight, as I suffered with heart attacks. But no matter what they gave me, nothing would reduce me. Since taking Kruschen, everyone wherever I go exclaims about how much I have lost. I took it at first for rheumatism, and it has done me a world of good, as well as reducing my weight. Before Christmas I weighed 224 lbs. Now I am considerably less—in fact, a coat which I wore last winter, I have lost. I have lost more than I have gained in the last year. I have had to take to be altered before I was able to wear it again. I have not really made any difference with my diet, so there is only Kruschen to thank!"—(MRS. M. E. S.)

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the waste and poisons that cumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat gets—slowly, yes—but surely.

Alberta In The Lead

Province Has Highest Marriage Rate In Canada

A bridegroom of 84 with a bride of 18; 10 brides under 16; three mothers who have borne their third child when but 16 years old; two men who married when they were more than 80 years old are some of the highlights of a report compiled from the vital statistics records of Alberta. The province has the highest marriage rate in the Dominion and the highest birthrate west of Quebec.

Englishmen are still the greatest progenitors, followed by Ukrainians and Germans. Alberta does not follow the majority, for November proved the popular month in which to be married.

Alberta boys apparently do not care to assume marital duties as readily as do the girls, for while there were only 76 grooms under the age of 21, no less than 1,416 girls of a total of 5,984 became brides before they reached their majority.

Blind Man Climbs Mountain

Portland Publisher Aided By Dog Makes Long Ascent

Although he is totally blind, Ed G. Robbins, publisher of a Portland weekly newspaper, has realized his long ambition of climbing the snow-capped summit of Mt. Hood. He was aided by his faithful police dog, "Treble", in making the long ascent. Asked what he wanted to climb the peaks for, the blind editor said, "for the experience, man, for the experience!"

Canadian fresh beef, fresh pork and fresh lamb have a much wider range of export than is generally believed. Rarest Metal On Earth

Newly Discovered Mineral Is Worth $1,000,000 An Ounce

The rarest metal on earth—worth more than $1,000,000 an ounce—was exhibited before the American Chemistry Society by an assistant chemistry professor who announced the first isolation of protactinium.

A. V. Bruce, brought from the University of Chicago one-tenth of a gram of the metal, which he succeeded in isolating after years of work.

Protactinium is "squeezed" out of pitchblende. The latter ore is reportedly plentiful in the Great Bear Lake and other northern districts of the Canadian west.

Hard and silvery, the protactinium clung to a fine, one-inch thread of tungsten like drops of mercury. Its rays are more penetrating than those of radium. Its scientific and medical possibilities are wide. It emits the same kind of "Alpha, Beta and Gamma" rays as radium, and Dr. Bruce said its "Gamma" rays, which are the ones used in medicine, will penetrate much more deeply than those of radium.

Its "Alpha" rays, which are fast-travelling particles, fly farther than similar particles from radium. But protactinium does not give off nearly as many of the rays of any of the three types. It has a "half-life" of 32,000 years, which means that in that period it will radiate away half of its metallic substance. Radium, in contrast, has a "half-life" of 1,600 years.

The difference in rate promises to make possible many experiments with the new metal that are too dangerous with the fast-acting radium. This tenth of a gram of a thread is all the protactinium which could be squeezed chemically out of a ton of ore. It cost $8,000. At the same rate an ounce will cost $1,250,000.

Oldest United States Town

Orabi, Arizona, Inhabited Since 1200 States Scientists

Fortunately for St. Augustine, Florida, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, the oldest towns in the United States, has no chamber of commercial or advertising genius to dispute their claims. For Dr. P. S. Martin, archaeologist at the Field Museum of Natural History, asserted that the Hopi Indian settlement of Orabi, in Arizona, was the oldest continuously inhabited community in the land.

While St. Augustine was settled about 1565 and Santa Fe dates back about 1687, Orabi has been the home town to generations of Hopi since 1200 A.D., or earlier. Dr. Martin convinced himself of the antiquity of the Orabi pueblo by archaeological studies there.

No Novelty In Canada

Dominion Can Easily Match Soviet's Big Fish Story

Publicity is being given to the fact that 40-pound trout have been caught in Lake Sevan in Armenia and that the Soviet Government has placed 33,000,000 trout fry in the lake this year. Forty-pound trout are no novelty in Lake Superior and millions of trout and whitefish fry are placed in the lake every year. In fact, trout of 50 to 40 pounds are not exactly novelties even in some inland lakes.

Japan Grows Own Wheat

Country Now Able To Supply Its Own Requirements

The Japanese government's five-year growing project, inaugurated in 1932 by the ministry of agriculture and forestry to enable the country to supply its own requirements of the cereal, has achieved its objective two years ahead of time. Estimates submitted at a conference in Tokyo of the chief officials of the wheat encouragement bureau in the various prefectures showed the wheat crop in Japan this year will yield 44,549,000 bushels, while the estimated consumption of the country is 45,000,000 bushels.

Since the domestic crop is now practically equal to consumption, the officials have decided to relax their efforts to increase production and to concentrate their attention on effecting improvement in quality.

Although bread by no means supplants rice, which remains the staple cereal, it has been popular as a food for several years and army regulations prescribe mixing wheat with rice before boiling it for soldiers' rations. The wheat constituents counteract the tendency of polished rice alone to cause beriberi (kakisie) as it is called in Japanese.

Many households consequently now mix some wheat with the rice before boiling it for the family table with resultant good effects on the general health.

Due to the world rise in wheat prices, Japanese flour mills have been falling hard recently chiefly on domestic wheat. It is likely that the mills will continue to import a fair quantity of Canadian and Australian wheat of qualities not yet produced there, for mixing purposes, for some time at least.

The Art Of Making Tea

Method To Use In Order To Obtain The Full Delicious Flavor

No beverage in the world is as universally popular as tea. It is used in nearly every civilized country and this delightful drink not only refreshes and invigorates the mind and body, but also serves as the medium by which people meet in a spirit of friendship and understanding the world over.

In the following directions (which were supplied by "Salada" Tea) are followed, each cup will yield the full delicious flavour that makes tea so enjoyable.

1. Use a tea of fine quality.
2. Use fresh water always.
3. Use no earthenware tea-pot.

Scald out the pot to make it warm, place in a level teaspoon of tea for every cup desired, and one for the pot. Add fresh boiling water. Allow to steep about five minutes and stir slightly before serving.

Tea made according to the above rules will be fragrant, delicious and completely satisfying.

The Peace River country, the last great agricultural frontier of the Western Canadian plains, exceeds the combined areas of Scotland, Ireland, and England; is over six times the size of Belgium, five times that of Denmark, one-third the extent of France; and slightly larger than the republic of Uruguay. The Peace River country exceeds the combined areas of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware, and is larger than the combined six New England States.

Is Densely Populated
The most densely populated small area in the world is 121st street between First and Second avenues, New York, Miss Marguerite Wales, social worker, said. The block is only 700 feet long, but 2,700 people make it their home. Seventy per cent of them, Miss Wales said, are on relief.

Scotland is testing the innovation of sending line lines by rockets shot from ship to shore instead of the other way around.

Britain's Best Customers

Annual Purchases Of Foreigns Run Into Millions Of Pounds

This distinction belongs to British railways, whose annual purchases include 50,000 different articles. Over 1,000 miles of track are laid or renewed yearly, for which 210,000 tons of steel rails, 4,000,000 sleepers, and 2,000,000 cubic yards of ballast must be bought. The 54,000,000 tons of coal consumed by 21,000 locomotives, steamships and hotels keeps a large section of the mining industry regularly employed; 3,800,000 yards of cloth are purchased from British mills for uniforms; 21,000,000 bricks, 62,000 tons of oil, 9,000 tons of paint and varnish, and a further 296,000 tons of iron and steel—all from British firms.

The sum of £16,800,000 is expended on the renewal and maintenance of permanent way and works, and £19,000,000 on locomotives, carriages and wagons.

Must For Egg-Packers

When packing eggs for shipment a good practice is to brush the hands lightly over each filler as it is packed to make sure that no eggs are protruding above the top of the filler. Such eggs almost invariably will break in transit. Before packing a case, examine the bottom and sides. If any nails are loose or have fallen out, replace them.

TEETHING FEVER

Relieved!

Mrs. Edward James' baby had two teeth when less than three months old. She writes: "He has 18 now and I can tell you that giving him Baby's Own Tablets was the best thing I ever did for him. Teething is a time when the little ones can always be soothed and the fever relieved by giving sweet, safe Baby's Own Tablets. Very easy to take, no after effects. Give them every time."

MINING INDUSTRY COMES SECOND TO AGRICULTURE

Calgary.—In the heart of this agricultural area the Dominion's federal official cautioned that the mineral industry of Canada was gaining rapidly upon agriculture in export value to the country.

Dr. Charles Cammell, deputy minister of mines, addressing the western annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, declared agricultural exports increased in 1933-34 by 13 per cent. while in the same period exports of minerals and their products jumped by 60 per cent. over previous year's statistics.

In 1933 the value of Canada field crops amounted to $422,148,000 and mineral "crop" $220,501,000. The mining industry now ranked second only to agriculture among the primary producing industries of the country. "These figures," declared Dr. Cammell, "strikingly illuminate the mineral industry in the great and growing role it plays nowadays in Canada's foreign trade."

Describing the intensive search for gold in the Dominion, and its encouraging results, Dr. Cammell added: "And it may not be amiss to stress that international authorities see no slackening, or likely slackening in the future in the demand for the precious metal."

"The enhanced value of the gold exports has had much to do with the Dominion's total foreign trade immense gold resources, in raising May 31, 1934, to $1,150,568,900 from $923,093,690.

"The increasing price of gold has added immensely to the Dominion's wealth. A great boon has been conferred upon Canada with her immense resources, in the raising of the price of the one product that above all others is most readily salable," declared Dr. Cammell.

The deputy minister said the world demand for gold was now greater than ever. History showed the price of gold had been periodically raised through the ages but never lowered. He did not believe it was likely now to recede to the recent standard level of $20.67 per ounce.

Back To The Land

Unemployed Man Becomes Successful Manitoba Farmer

Winnipeg.—Two years ago P. Langer was one of Winnipeg's unemployed. Weary of fruitless job-seeking, he accepted relief for himself and his family.

To-day he is a successful Manitoba farmer at Rosser. C. E. Simonite of the back-to-the-land commission said Langer came into his office, placed a bundle of durum wheat on his desk and announced he had sold 1,700 bushels of it at 98¢ a bushel. The premium was paid because of the wheat's quality.

He has more to sell and expects a gross of $2,500 this year.

Wants Money Back

Has Unused Railway Ticket Purchased in 1919

Chicago.—John Watt isn't going to take that train risk he bought a ticket for 1919—so he wants his money back.

The Chicago office of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways reported that Watt, who lives at Auburndale, Mass., bought the ticket in Chicago for passage between Detroit and Boston.

Watt presented the ticket and it was forwarded to the general offices in Montreal, with the request for his money back.

The ticket, Watt said he was told, was good "until used."

Would Stop Hasty Strikes

Chicago.—Action aimed at preventing hasty calling of printers' strikes was taken by the International Typographical Union, in convention here. Delegates voted to change the union rule which required a strike vote of local members within 24 hours after its authorization by the executive council of the international, to allow the council declaration "in final" the time for a vote.

Deplores Intrigue

De Valera Of Irish Free State Refers To Russia And League

Geneva.—Small nations raised their voices at the League of Nations assembly opened general discussion—Austria in fervent declaration and the Irish Free State in fervent protest.

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, rigidly guarded by secret service men, stated Austria's case, retreating Austria's insistence on independence.

Long, lean Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Free State, followed Schuschnigg and somewhat heatedly declared he did not object to Russia's entry into the league, but he did object, vigorously, to the backstairs intrigue going on over the wording of the invitation to Russia. De Valera demanded the whole matter be put before the league assembly.

Schuschnigg stressed his words as he declared the intention of his government to preserve Austria's internal and external independence. He declared the Austrian co-operative state was reactionary. "We are not reactionaries," he said, "but sufficiently realistic to dispense with a backward glance at the policy of an earlier day."

Mr. de Valera said that he didn't like the lobbying that had been conducted to secure Russia's entry. He objected to the "hotel-room intrigues," the drafting and redrafting of the form of invitation.

He was ready to vote for Russia's entry, he said, although the ideals of the Free State and of the Soviet were poles apart. From inquiries he has made he gathered that Russia would have the necessary two-thirds majority vote to enter the assembly, and that Russia was ready to join.

"Then why not get down to business at once, and bring the matter before the assembly without attempting to deprive any state of its right under the convention to object to Russian membership," he demanded.

Indians Claim Rights

Missawans Tribe Alleges Bands' Funds Improperly Spent

Prince Albert, Sask.—Agent Chief George Dreaver, 78-year-old head of the Missawans Indians, testified in the exchequer court hearing of the band's petition of right here that in speeches made at the signing of the treaty in 1876, commissioners of Queen Victoria promised that medicine would be supplied free to the Indians on their reserve located west of here.

In their petition the Indians allege that the department of Indian Affairs improperly spent $21,275 of the band's funds. Medicine, food, education, which they claim were to be free, were charged against funds held in trust by the government for the band. Other expenditures for farm instructors' salaries, education and maintenance of dead and dumb members of the band, overcharges for 20 head of horses and payment of treaty money to two women not members of the band were improper and without sanction, it is alleged.

Electric Lights In North

Mission Hospital Generates Its Own Electricity

Ottawa.—Encountering severe gales, ice, rain and fog, the steamer Nascopie, carrying the 1934 expedition of interior's expedition to the posts in the Canadian Arctic archipelago, continues to make progress on this season's patrol. A highlight of the visit to Pangnirtung was the installation in the Anglican mission hospital of a plant for the generation of electricity, a donation by the family of the late Sir Edward Kemp, Toronto. The hospital was ablaze with light before the steamer left to proceed northward.

Receives Appointment

Winnipeg.—Appointment of W. A. Mather, formerly assistant to the vice-president in Montreal, to be general manager of Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway was announced here by W. N. Neal, vice-president of Western lines. Mr. Neal also announced appointment of C. A. Catterell, general superintendent of the British Columbia district, to post of assistant general manager in charge of the British Columbia region including Vancouver Island.

Nickel Production

Ottawa.—A huge increase was shown in the production of nickel for the six months ending June, when it amounted to 65,333,686 pounds as against 52,760,291 pounds for the corresponding period of 1933, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Will Enforce Bird Act

R.C.M.P. Official Issues Orders To Arctic And Sub-Arctic Posts

Montreal.—Instructions were sent out at the closing session of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation here by Colonel J. W. Spalding, deputy commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, to officers of the force in 140 Arctic and sub-Arctic posts to see that the Migratory Birds Act was obeyed by white game and Eskimos. He stated if there were a like decrease in the number of migratory birds in the next 30 years as there had been during a like period in the past, Canadians of the future would never see wild geese and ducks.

James Brown, of Montpelier, Vt., was chosen president. John Farley, of San Francisco, was elected first vice-president.

Big Ben Is Burnished

Historical London Clock Has New Coat Of Paint

London.—Big Ben has had his face washed and all, doped up with crimson paint and bright gold.

A drab and gloomy landmark when it was put in splints for overhauling, Big Ben reappeared in the same glittering finery as it did in the early 19th century.

The gold is real gold, too, applied in the form of the thinnest of gold leaf.

TELL OF HUGE PROFITS FROM WAR MUNITIONS

Washington.—The vast Du Pont Corporation of Delaware was shown before United States senate subcommittee investigators to have done a war order business totalling $1,345,000,000 between 1914 and 1918—part of the profits from which went into General Motors stock.

Pierre Du Pont, member of the munitions manufacturing family, told investigators that $47,000,000 of the corporation profits were spent to buy one-fourth of the common stock of General Motors.

Three brothers—Irrenee Du Pont, Pierre S. Du Pont and Lamont Du Pont—and their cousin Felix Du Pont, were in the room.

The testimony brought out that Du Pont was the first United States company to receive great war orders. In the first year of the war, from September, 1914, to September, 1915, it received $205,000,000 worth of war orders from Europe. In all of 1915 orders totalled $323,000,000. During the year before the war the company's business amounted to only $30,000,000.

The end of the war brought a cancellation of $260,000,000 in contracts held by the Du Pont Company.

"The war's end meant a great change for us," said Pierre "a great change."

A report said the company showed a net loss of $10,601,000, in 1919.

Cargo For Churchill

Livestock Pool And Wheat Pool To Forward Shipments On S.S. Brandon

Saskatoon, Sask.—Co-operators will play the chief part in furnishing cargo for the second voyage of the S.S. Brandon from Churchill this year. The Saskatchewan Livestock Pool will furnish all the cattle, sending 250 head to the Co-operative Wholesale Society of England. In the hold will go a cargo of wheat from the Saskatchewan wheat pool, which may have the same destination.

The Brandon will leave for England of Birkenhead during the latter part of September. J. C. Hackney, manager of the livestock pool, said the pool will try to make the cattle shipment a representative consignment from northern Saskatchewan, from as many producers as possible who can supply first class quality. It is expected that they will be drawn chiefly from the Prince Albert area.

Export Of Feed

Would Withhold Shipments To The United States

Melita, Man.—Reeves of 12 municipalities in southeastern Manitoba petitioned the Manitoba government to withhold export licences for feed into the United States until the needs of dried-out areas in the province are fully met.

It was estimated 32,100 tons of feed will be required for livestock quartered in the southwest this winter. Practically no grain was threshed over a wide area.

Germany Offers To Pay

London.—German importers of yarn, facing a complete shutdown of the source of supply, have offered to pay £250,000 owing to Lancashire cotton companies in 12 monthly instalments, it was announced. In the offer, it was declared essential that delivery of yarn to Germany recommence immediately.

Chinese Demand Food

Inland Province Faces Famine After Summer-Low Drought

Nanking, China.—The wolf growl loud and longer in famine-stricken Anhwei province.

A summer-long drought that has seared fields, dried water sources and made desolate that thickly-populated countryside gave no sign of ending, and hungry desperate farmers swarmed into smaller towns demanding food from rice shops. These closed, fearing attacks.

Advices from the inland province—where the rigors of the winter are as great as those of summer—indicated relief must be forthcoming promptly if widespread disorders and banditry are to be averted.

There were grim stories of hunger-crazed wolves sweeping down on helpless villagers, farmers using their last small supplies of drinking water in fruitless efforts to save parched crops, peasants dying everywhere of hunger, disease and polluted water supplies.

Stronghold Of Peace

Adolf Hitler Pledges Germany To Peaceful Measures

Berlin.—Adolf Hitler again solemnly dedicated Germany to the cause of peace. The Reichschancellor received the diplomatic corps in the Reich president's office, last occupied by the late Paul von Hindenburg, and told the assembled envoys:

"The unalterable goal of my policy is to make Germany the stronghold of peace."

ADVOCATE STEPS TO FACILITATE TRADE WITH U.S.

Winnipeg.—Early action by the governments of Canada and the United States toward reciprocal trade concessions was urged by the ninth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here.

Support of reciprocity came as the convention adopted the annual report of the policy committee, which also urged a trade mission to China in 1935 to stimulate Canadian trade in the Orient.

Economy in government and a national unemployed relief policy with the Dominion contributing equitably on a basis of provincial needs also were approved. Administration of relief should be under provincial departments or commissions.

Land settlement as a step toward solving unemployment was advocated. The convention also recommended a Canadian wheat institute to stimulate marketing and use of Canadian wheat in markets of the world and co-operation between federal and provincial governments for protection of the public in sale of securities.

The convention approved steps taken by various federal governments to negotiate trade agreements that would secure concessions for agricultural products in new markets and urged that every advantage be taken of every possible opportunity to extend this principle.

Appointment of committees by the incoming national council to study the problem of immigration and another to deal with upset social conditions and allied problems was decided. Duplicative taxation was condemned and steps toward elimination asked.

"This chamber approves the report presented by the joint international committee and the conclusions reached by it at its meetings," declared the policy section dealing with the reciprocity question.

"It notes that on June 12, 1934, the president of the United States was granted by congress authority to enter into foreign trade agreements and to modify existing agreements. It expresses the opinion the governments of Canada and the United States should enter into negotiations at the earliest possible date to determine the extent to which mutual concessions can be arrived at with a view to accelerating the movement of trade between the two countries.

Immediate removal of duplicative taxation and steps to cut costs of government in the federal, provincial and municipal field were written into the policy report as a result of previous action of the convention. It asked reduction of membership of the federal upper house of commonsense and provincial legislatures. End of duplication and overlapping of government services such as administration of insurance, company law, agricultural and health and social services, was advocated.

MAY TAKE STEPS TO MAKE CHANGE IN THE B.N.A. ACT

Ottawa.—A letter prepared by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett before his departure for Geneva, has been despatched to all provincial premiers asking for suggestions for a date at which they will meet with the Dominion government in Ottawa to discuss constitutional and other questions, as tentatively planned at the last Dominion-provincial conference. The letter, dated August 31, also asks:

What steps can be taken to reduce the evils of duplicate taxation and produce a more logical allocation of sources of revenue now available to Dominion and provinces?

Are the provinces prepared to surrender their exclusive jurisdiction over legislation dealing with such social problems as old age pensions, unemployment and social insurance, hours, and conditions for work, minimum wages, etc., to the Dominion parliament? If so, on what terms and conditions?

Is it desirable to endeavor more clearly to define the respective jurisdiction of the Dominion parliament and provincial legislatures with respect to health and agricultural and other matters in which there is a duplication of effort by federal and provincial authorities?

Consideration of the extent to which there may be more complete co-ordination of the effort of federal and provincial authorities with respect to gathering and publication of statistical information and what steps, if any, should be taken to secure uniformity and complete accuracy of Canadian statistics.

In the event of it being determined that the legislative jurisdiction of the Dominion parliament and provincial legislatures as at present defined by the British North America Act should be modified, a determination of the form in which the amendments to the America Act should be made.

Appeal For Unemployed

Legion Head Suggests Plan To Help Them Keep Confidence

Calgary.—A plea to all Canadians that efforts be made to prevent unemployed persons from losing confidence in themselves, their country and beliefs, was made here by Brig. Gen. Alex. Ross, president of the Canadian Legion.

"It is only by proper application of sympathy and understanding we can help them to help them back to normal life," declared General Ross, "and I can suggest no work more appealing to service clubs than the task of rebuilding these men into normal, healthy citizens."

The Canadian Legion, General Ross intimated, was studying a plan that would provide vocational and physical training for returned men out of work.

May Seize Sweepstake

Ontario May Take Action Under A Federal Statute

Toronto. Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Horburn said the Ontario government would take steps to seize $30,000 won in a sweepstake by John Wisnibord, Orangeville, Ont., business mail. He said he believed the province could attach the money under a federal statute passed last winter making proceeds of sweepstakes "forfeit to His Majesty."

Wisnibord won the money on a Quebec Army and Navy Veterans' Association sweepstake ticket on Windsor Ltd. winner of the St. Leger. He said he would use it for a trip to his native Poland to visit his aged mother.

Unemployment Insurance

Ottawa.—An unemployment insurance bill will be introduced in the House of Commons next session, it was announced by acting Prime Minister Sir George Perley. It will be discussed at the Dominion-provincial conference here this fall and suggestions from the provinces will be welcomed.

Premier Needs Rest

Geneva.—When Prime Minister R. B. Bennett returns from Geneva to England and Canada it is expected he will have to take a good rest. The Canadian prime minister was confined to his rooms with the bad cold he suffered on the voyage over, as well as the effects of overwork.

Recently Lord Nuffield (formerly Sir William Morris), famous British automobile magnate, stated that the best days of his life were spent on a bicycle and that for health and pleasure he still preferred to tour the country by that means. As a sequel to that statement the British Cycle and Motor-Cycle Manufacturers and Traders Union sent a deputation to Lord Nuffield's house at Cowley, and presented him with a new bicycle. This picture shows the happy peer riding his new steed.

IF LEGISLATION CONTROLLED AUTO TRAFFIC SPEEDING AND ACCIDENTS WOULD BE FEWER

The terrible motor accident, in Calgary on Sunday morning last, brings home to one, the absolute necessity of the authorities taking over and controlling the speed of automobiles and trucks in Alberta, whether in city, towns or on the highway. We know and realize that the present day cars are built for speed up to 100 miles an hour, and we also know there are even many crazy speed fanatics who even then want to drive them at 120 miles an hour. If these so called speed demons want to show their skill and daring let them have a track all to themselves. They should not be allowed to endanger the lives of others, who may be getting a real enjoyment out of motoring by travelling along at 30 or 40 miles an hour. Only last week, one well known expert driver had a big write-up in the dailies, that he travelled from Calgary to Portland at an average speed of nearly seventy miles an hour, with his wife and baby accompanying him. He frankly admitted that for very many miles he was exceeding ninety miles an hour, and instead of being punished for such speeding on a public highway, he is glorified, praised, for his skill and daring. If that man had had a blow-out, going at that speed, with another car happening to pass at the time, all his skill, all his knowledge of driving could not have prevented an accident. Of course they'll say, "but they were guaranteed tires." Guaranteed tires do not prevent fatal accidents. It's generally the innocent that have to suffer in these accidents, as is well proven by the fatal occurrence on Sunday last.

Surely the authorities with all the power in their hands can make rules and regulations governing the speed of automobiles. It may seem old womanish and out of date to come back to forty miles an hour again, but its far better than a short ride to the grave.

It's up to the government to act immediately.—
Social Credit Chronicle.

MAN'S INHERITANCE—

Vivid imagination is a gift from the gods, yet we believe that somewhere in Central Europe, a reporter has been endowed with Minerva's richest blessing. Picture, if one may, a spot with more women than men, and the result would be similar to that which the scribe has reported in the following words.

BELGRADE—High among the Valashtich mountains, Jugo Slavia, a "paradise" for women exists. Here men do all the knitting and heavy housework, as well as their work in the fields.

The women just enjoy themselves. They are able to do as they like because there are so many more men than girls.

If the husband tries to assert his authority the wife threatens to leave him and he knows he could never find another.

Each girl has at least a dozen suitors and no one can ever remember seeing a spinster aged more than 20 in the district.

Laugh and Grow Fat

A HUMOROUS STRAIN WITH WHICH OUR NEIGHBORS HAVE TICKLED THEIR READERS

Just what ails a young fellow who was taken sick here last week is explained in the following verses:
He kissed her on the cheek,
He's been laid up for a week.
It seemed a shameful feat,
They say with printer's ease.

"He sure believes in Palm Fronds!"
"Yeah, just foreclosed the mortgage an' relieved me of my fears."

This isn't a new one, but it is worth re-telling. A little girl ran into her home one afternoon and said to her maiden aunt, a Christian Scientist: "Auntie, you know, that old man on the corner who was ill?"

"You mean he thought he was ill?" corrected the aunt.
"Well, now he thinks he's dead," said the little girl.

A school teacher was explaining to a class of "bats" the meaning of the word "collision."
"A collision," said she, "occurs when two bodies come to gether unexpectedly." She pointed to one little child. "Now, then, give me an example of a 'collision'."

The child was thoughtful. Presently came the reply in a tiny, high-pitched voice:
"Please, teacher—twins."

On Sunday a little fellow was on a visit to his uncle and grandpa. "Uncle," he said, after his grandfather had left the room, "How old is grandpa?"

"I couldn't tell you," answered his uncle, "without looking it up in the family Bible."
"Gosh!" gasped the child, "is he old enough to be mentioned in the Bible?"

Small Bobby had been to a birthday party, and knowing his weakness his mother looked him straight in the eye and said, "I hope you didn't ask for a second piece of cake."
"No," replied Bobby, "I only asked Mrs. Smith for the recipe so you could make some like it, and she gave me two more pieces just of her own accord."

Two spinsters up-country were criticizing modern youth. One said "wonder what the world is coming to with women dressing up as men." "Yes," remarked the other, "and then they suspect everybody for only yesterday I got a letter that started 'Dear Sir or Madam.'"

The friend of a Jewish former serviceman remarked to him: "And did you get a commission while you were in the army?"
"No," he replied, "only my wages."

Mrs. Brown: "My husband gives me a very handsome dress allowance."
Mrs. Jenkins: "And do you save it, dear?"

Mother: "Rupert, darling, when divided those five sweeties with cousin Eleanor, you give her three?"
Rupert: "No, I leave them to her. I don't come out right, so I ate one and then began to divide!"

A salesman after much persuasion, managed to sell a tractor to a negro farmer. It was delivered and shortly after the salesman called for the money.

"Well, Rastus," he began, "can you pay me for the tractor now?"
"Pay yo' foh de tractah," asked Rastus, in surprise. "No, sah, why yo' said yo'self dat in three weeks de tractah would pay foh itself!"

"I don't wish Jim Judd, the town calamity howler, no hard luck," says Old Man Munn, "but I wish he'd climb one of the mountains that makes out of molehills and falls off."

Lady: "What is your trade?"
Beggar: "I'm a picker ma'am."

Lady: "A picker? Tell me what do you pick?"

Beggar: "Well, ma'am, it goes according to the season; I pick strawberries in July; in August, I pick hops; in September I pick peckets, and the rest of the year pick oakum."

"Mother, when the light goes out where does it go?"
"I don't know." You might just as well ask me where your father goes when he goes out!"

Yes, if I called you a rhinoceros it was an insult. Not to you, but to the rhinoceros."

"Bogus, shall we buy a wireless set with a loud speaker?"
"Are you mad? Haven't we your mother with us?"

"Dick is all right if you know how to take him."
"I hate these people who have to be labelled like a bottle of medicine."

Mother (giving afternoon tea instructions): "Now, remember Willie, when these cakes are handed around you must take a plain bun from the bottom of the dish."

Willie (disgustedly): "Just my luck. The bologna buns are again."

First Bird—Don't you know better than to sit on this chimney? You're getting all dirty.
Second Bird—Soots me alright.

"So Barber is doing a cash business and making lots of money."
"Yes, he's feathering his nest with down payments, so to speak."

"Daddy," cried the doctors small son, "I want a drink."
"Sorry," murmured daddy sleepily, "but I'm all out of prescription blanks."

The girl: "You don't know who I am, do you?"
The Child: "Yes, I do—you're the back part of my brother's motor-bike."

A man whose life was despaired of by a doctor when he was a boy has just died at the age of 102. Doctors are generally right in the end.

Wife (sneaking): "I would that I were a little bird."
Husband: "Yes, then I would bring the cat in."

"I am a commercial traveller in insect powder."
"That is very nice, but have we crush them between our thumb?"

Blinks (waiting with friend): "Was your wife ever on time?"
Jinks: "Well, once she sat on my watch."

"The Geographical society says explorers should be baldmen."
"But what would keep them aboard?"

"How is Jack?" "Flat on his back."
"Why, I saw him dancing with a blonde last night." "So did his wife."

Johnnie: "Why do you have your hair permanently waved, Mummy?"
Mother: "Well, you see, darling, then I don't have to have it done for over six months."

Johnnie (after a few moments silence): "Mummy, may I have my neck permanently washed?"

And behold a certain man in Wainwright had a dream.

He dreamt that he had died and went to heaven, and his name was "Walker."

And behold in heaven he was knocked upon the door and asked Peter for admittance.

And Peter said "What was thy occupation on earth?"

And he replied "I was an automobile mechanic." And Peter replied, "No use, no room for you."

In his dream again he returned and found that another mechanic named "Hugh" had been admitted in his absence.

And he remonstrated with Peter and said, "Why was 'Hugh' admitted when I was refused?" And Peter said "Oh, he's a mechanic but he is 'good'."

LOW-PRICED WHEAT - PERIODS COMPARED

An unusually interesting contribution to the current literature of the world wheat situation is a carefully compiled survey of the decline and recovery of wheat prices in the nineties and comparison with the present period of abnormally low wheat prices. This pamphlet was issued last month by the food research bureau of Stanford University, California, generally recognized throughout the world as being of high authority and unbiased opinion.

The low world wheat prices of the present period apparently reached the bottom between May 1932 and January 1933 and also between February and April 1934. The effect of the low prices this year was not so keenly felt in Canada due to the higher domestic prices caused by the depreciation of the Canadian dollar. Previously the lowest prices recorded on the British import market and also at Chicago were those of the period August to October, 1934. They then ranged from 15 to 25 gold cents higher than the low points reached recently.

The low prices of the nineties and of the period commencing 1933 both had similar causes, the principal one being heavy world surplus of wheat. Recovery of wheat prices in the nineties was brought about by a sharp drop in 1937 which brought the carryover down and restored a balance to the world wheat market. A normal carryover is placed at between 600 and 700 million bushels. The survey believes that it is possible but not probable that the world carryover will be down to normal by August 1, 1935.

The writer of the survey is insistent that the emergence and persistence of the world wheat surplus was the principal cause of the depression in international wheat prices from 1911 to 1935. But there was also a business depression at that time and a decline in general wholesale prices. Further, British wheat prices had been in decline during the preceding 20 years under the influence of general monetary factors, expansion of cultivation in North America, Argentina and Australia and other influences. The wheat surplus built up at that time was considerably smaller even in relation to normal requirements than the surplus which has accumulated in recent years. The inference is given that the world wheat surplus on August 1, 1932—3,100,000,000 bushels approximately—was two and a half to three times as large as the maximum year-end surplus in the nineties. In relation to normal world wheat requirements it was about twice as large.

Bad weather in 1899 and particularly 1907 caused severe damage to wheat crops throughout the world. In 1897 drought was prevalent in India, Australia, Russia, Spain and Northern Africa. In Western Europe the crop got a bad start, was delayed by a cold wet spring and further damaged by storms in July.

Argentina suffered from drought and locusts as well as November frosts and rains at harvest and Canada from summer frosts and late heavy rains. This situation brought an end to the heavy wheat surplus and even although a large world crop was raised in 1899, a below-normal crop in 1900 again restored a balance.

Prospects for recovery at the present time are examined and the observation is made that the chief hope for readjustment must lie in contraction of production. Conceivably Nature might again restore a balance as she did in the '90s if political measures were not so modifying economic forces as to make the task more difficult. For Nature is unable to correct the present surplus condition within a year or two plus condition notably low yields per acre in practically every important wheat producing country.—The Budget.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Bound for England after six years as British high commissioner to Canada, Sir William Clark sailed from New York to Great Britain.

The British Columbia government will construct a new bridge across the Fraser river at New Westminster, Premier T. D. Pattullo has announced.

The Nazis' political soldiers—the brown shirt storm troops and the black shirt schutz staffs—were in the city, Adolf Hitler asserted at the Nazi's annual party congress in Nuremberg, Germany.

A new deal for soap-box orators was declared when Robert Moses, commissioner of New York parks, announced that street car parks, in addition to traditional Union Square, will be available for open-air meetings.

The general business outlook in Great Britain has brightened since June, Sir Joseph Stamp, well-known British economist and director of the Bank of England, declared before members of the Aberdeen Chamber of Commerce.

An Irish Free State army aeroplane with three occupants crashed in the garden of Judge Meredith's home at Dublin. Lieutenant Arthur Kelly, pilot and Private Twomey were killed; Sergeant Canavan jumped clear of the wreckage but was seriously injured.

With a view to developing a market in Japan for British Columbia sheep, the government has made a trial shipment of 400 sheep for breeding purposes, Premier T. D. Pattullo said. The shipment was made by the Helan Maru.

Reports to the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association showed imports into Canada from Empire countries for July increased by more than 30 per cent compared with July, 1933, and exports increased by about 17 per cent.

The Newfoundland commission government disapproved of plans laid before it by the St. John's municipal council to supply funds for charity and civic improvements by lottery. The commission government threatened legislative action to prohibit it if necessary.

Leaves For England

British High Commissioner in Canada Transferred To South Africa. Concluding six years as British high commissioner in Canada, Sir William Clark has returned to England. He will leave the Old Country about the beginning of the new year to take a similar post in South Africa. Sir Francis Ploud, new British high commissioner to Canada, will arrive in Ottawa about January 1.

Portuguese Africa, Mexico, Jamaica, Australia, British South Africa, British India, Argentina, Chile, Newfoundland, United States, French Rhodesia, Malta, New Zealand, St. Pierre et Miquelon, Austria, Palestine, Straits Settlements, Uruguay, Peru, Italy, France, Denmark, and the British Isles are the countries to which Canada exported farm implements or farm machinery during the month of July, 1934.

Peasants Superstitions

Chinese Angry When Authorities Disbelieve Power Of Gods
The deep-rooted superstitions of the farmers of the Yangtze Valley who believe in the power of their dragon gods to bring much-needed rain have brought about several clashes with the authorities and with private persons, and in several cases these clashes have resulted in the deaths of the farmers.

In Kiangnan, a town in southern Chekiang province, the farmers, incensed over the fact that the local Kuomintang office expressed disbelief in the powers of the gods, raided the offices and completely destroyed them.

At Chungteh, the offices of the magistrate were surrounded by a group of farmers who forced the magistrate to conduct prayer services before the dragon god. The farmers threatened to kill the magistrate if he refused to obey their commands and pray for rain. So aggressively did the farmers become that the magistrate ordered his bodyguard to open fire, with the result that one farmer was killed and several wounded.

Near the town of Yuyao a school principal was killed by a mob of 2,000 infuriated peasants when he tried to convince them that praying to wooden and clay gods would not bring the desired rain. The band of peasants was returning from a prolonged service at one of the temples when the school principal stopped them, and made a speech on the benefits of irrigation in comparison to the benefits of praying to the temple images. So infuriated did the crowd become that they attacked the speaker and literally tore him to pieces.

Film Stars' Handwriting Analyzed

By LAWRENCE HILBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

Editor's Note: This article will be found especially interesting, dealing as it does with well-known film stars. What does YOUR handwriting tell? See the invitation following this article.

A correspondent sends me samples of the writing of several well-known people, and asks me to analyze the writing for her. There is so much of interest in these analyses that I am making them the subject of a special article.

Perhaps you have wondered why many men have been led into the different pursuits in which they have gained fame and fortune. It is immensely interesting to think of what might have been if different individuals had been led with traits of character that were entirely different from the real characteristics of their nature.

Men and women are born into this world with definite talents and order to take full advantage of them. Some go through life and never learn their proper talents, while others find and develop them early in life.

Ramon Novarro, the prominent film star, is particularly fortunate in finding his talent and making it the driving force of his life. His handwriting shows, as well those who have seen his films know, that he is a great dramatic actor—that he can interpret a role in a way that few people can even approach. He is also another ability and another very outstanding talent with which he has won recognition—his ability in music.

The rhythm and breaks in his writing show immediately to the hand-writing analyst—a talent and appreciation of the musical arts.

As an operatic singer, Ramon Novarro has achieved a position of not often given to a man. His talent in music is well-known, and, in perhaps, his first choice of profession. He has still another characteristic, another ability. His writing shows an ability to do his handiwork in a creative way—perhaps in painting, sculpture, or some other means of expression. Now men are born with such pronounced artistic ability in many lines—drama, music and the sculpture arts.

Take the handwriting of John Boles, another star. The dominant note in his character is his self-reliance. This is the quality that makes him depend only on himself for anything that he wants done. He is not easily quelled by the contrary to his many friends, but, at the same time, he looks to one man only to get it—and that man is himself.

John Boles could not be anything else if he desired—there is an independence of thought and action that will not allow him to think of help when he has a problem to face. He is close-mouthed about his personal affairs, and will usually have them solved before other people have heard about them. Decisive, quick thinking—a man of action—John Boles.

If you want a personal reading of what your own writing reveals, send a letter in your normal handwriting.

Gold Strike

Find Of Great Importance In Northern Saskatchewan

Strike of gold on the shores of Lake Athabasca in north-western Saskatchewan is a find of major importance, according to Hon. T. C. Davis, K.C.

Mr. Davis returned from Edmonton recently, where he met several prospectors just back from Lake Athabasca. Reports were favorable to the gold find, he said.

The strike lies 60 miles east of the Alberta boundary in Saskatchewan, and is easily accessible by water, since the quartz lies right on the lake shore. Assays as high as $150 have been reported.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 23

ISAIAH COUNSELS RULERS

Golden text: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee; because he trusted in thee." Isaiah 26:3.

Lesson: Isaiah, Chapters 7, 31, 36 and 37.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 21:1-7.

Explanations And Comments

Trust not in Egypt, but in Jehovah, 31:1-3. When Isaiah tells about his call to be a prophet, in the sixth chapter, he begins by saying, "In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw also the Lord." Others saw only the dying king; Isaiah always saw through events to God who is back of them. The rulers of Judah realize that there is imminent peril of Jerusalem's being taken by the Assyrians, but they give no thought of God. Isaiah pronounces we upon them for going down to Egypt for help, relying upon the horses, chariots and horsemen of that country in the hour of their peril and failing to seek the help of Jehovah. "Jehovah, too, is wise," the prophet proclaims (he speaks of the Assyrians), and will bring calamity upon the evildoers. The Egyptians are men, not God, as the great men of Judah seem to think; their horses are flesh, not spirit; when Jehovah acts, both helper and helped will fall and be destroyed together.

"This saith was the shaft best fitted to pierce the folly of the rulers of Judah," Dr. George Adam Smith comments. "Wisdom, a reasonable plan for their times and prudence in carrying it out, was the last thing that genuine religion and a reasonable association with God, whom they relied to what they called their religion—their temples, worship and poetry."

A Call to Reform, 31:6-9. Turn ye unto him from whom ye have deeply turned your backs; O children of Israel; put away your idols.

"It is the duty of nations as well as men to own their dependence on the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon; and to recognize the sublime truth announced in the Scriptures and proven by all history that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord." (Linn)

Turn to Jehovah and your foe, the Assyrians, shall fall, not by the sword of man, but by the stroke of God. "In the great crisis of her history, the invasion by Sennacherib, Judah was saved, as England was saved from the Armada, neither by strength of her bulwarks, for they had been burnt, nor by the valor of her men for the heart had gone from them, but because, apart from human help, God himself crushed her insolent foes in the moment of their triumph."

ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Dust, commonly associated with the gritty particles which fill the air in the course of "dust storms," is in reality responsible for some of the greatest beauties in nature. Blue skies, purple twilight and rain dews are caused by small dust particles which fill the air. Day would be almost as black as night, scientists say, if it were not that the particles of dust break up all the components of white light except the blue which we see in the sky. Sunset, with its richly-colored clouds, is the result of dust particles reflecting out all the seven colors which combine to make white light, except those we see reflected in the sky. Twilight is the reflection of the slanting sunlight from particles of dust high in the air.

To dust, too, is due the rain and snow fall. Moisture in the clouds forms into drops or flakes by clinging around the small dust particles suspended in the air. Rain clouds usually travel about a mile above the earth.

The "ring around the moon" which is a common phenomenon in cold weather, is caused by ice crystals in high clouds. The crystals break up the moon's light and scatter some of the colors, reflecting others, and giving the familiar effect. "Sun dogs" across the sky are produced in this same way.

Sun spots activities projected on the atmosphere, are responsible for two other common spectacles in the sky, the aurora borealis and the rainbow. Contrary to popular belief, the rainbow forms a full circle in the sky, and not the arc with which we are familiar. Could man ascend high enough into the air, he would perceive the rainbow in its entirety. This has been accomplished by airmen in recent years.

Now You Tell One

Old Sol is "mother" to two chicks at Jonestown. Biddy had quit her nest in a field with only a few of her eggs hatched. Old Sol beamed down on the nest and two weeks later two more chicks broke through the shells. The sun-batched chicks were healthy and healthy. Mrs. W. D. Cobb, owner of the strange brood, said.

Stay On The

Rolled Standard

It seems difficult, sometimes, to stay on the Gold Standard, but the "rolled" standard — all that's something else again. Once a man has "rolled his own" with Ogden's Fine Cut he's on his "Rolled" standard of smoking enjoyment for life.

Ogden's is might easy to roll and it does give a smoother, cooler and more fragrant smoke . . . To try Ogden's is to like Ogden's — particularly if you use "Chanticleer" or "Vogue" Cigarette Papers. Ogden's Fine Cut and either of these makes cut cigarette papers assure you a standard of satisfaction that's well worth staying on.

Excavations Important

May Prove Valuable In Tracing Migration From Asia To America

Archaeological discoveries expected to prove of great value in tracing the migration of peoples from Asia to the Aleutian Islands in Alaska and thence to continental North America was reported at Cordova, Alaska, by Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, curator of the United States national museum. Dr. Hrdlicka and his five student assistants unearthed a wall 350 feet and 16 feet high in their excavations of Uyak bay. At the site of the wall were found many implements and remains of ancient Alaskan cultures which Dr. Hrdlicka said substantiated the contention that two prehistoric races had lived there at different ages.

BEEF TEXAS STYLE

will die as other nations have whenever we ignore the blessed privilege that our loving Saviour bled and died that we may live.

Moreover, I wish to say that I know no better or more permanent way that a young man can develop a smiling countenance, a Christian courage and loyalty in his own heart than by teaching a class of boys in Sunday School. In other words the more we invest in the Sunday School the greater our daily income of blessing.

Personally I have nothing to boast of, but all I thank God for, as each every case, Christian Sunday School teachers.

My public school education was extremely limited to the first, or A.B.C. book, but through the Sunday School, and it alone, I am now able to read and write and am now writing my third book. As far as education is concerned, the same can be said of my father, who never went to public school one day in his life, but his Sunday School teacher taught him to read.

Thus I have just reason to bow down and thank God for the Sunday School and its influence.

MAGIC Baking Powder costs so little—and can always be depended on to give you uniformly good results. It actually takes less than 1¢ worth of Magic to make a big three-layer cake. So why take chances with inferior brands? Always bake with Magic and be sure!

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. ROONEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

CHAPTER I.

"When you tell me that you're going out to Crevasse County to claim your half of the old Hour-glass ranch, I tell you, Mr. Keene, that you're just asking for trouble!"

Simon Burwell, first vice-president of the Drovers Bank in Cano, leaned back in his chair, spread his hands tip-toe and stared at his visitor. He took him in from head to foot and frankly liked what he saw. The he studied an open letter on his desk.

"Your uncle was a good friend of mine," he said. "But he was very careless or unwise to make the will he did."

"What do you mean?" Gerald Keene straightened up in his chair and Simon Burwell, grinned at him.

"Don't carry a chip on your shoulder, my boy. I'm not criticizing old Pater. Why, boy, I loved him. Your uncle lived many years in the West. He and old Joe Carr were partners for years. It was quite natural that when Pater died he should leave the Hour-glass ranch to his partner, Joe Carr. But when he dragged you into the matter he only complicated matters. How long since you saw your uncle?"

"I never laid eyes on him in my life," said Keene. "He was my mother's brother and the family was widely separated. I happened to learn of the bequest quite accidentally. Had been in business in the Northwest and I happened to drop in at my old home. There I learned about the will so I got the letter from Judge Frame to you to identify myself. The old judge told me that you have always handled the ranch's business. That's so, isn't it, sir?"

"It has never kept me busy, I'm sorry to say," said Burwell. "There is no business worthy speaking of. You're the half owner of a big ranch that doesn't pay a dollar of dividends."

"and won't. Have you seen your uncle's will?"

Burwell did not wait a reply. He went to a wall safe and came back with a slim document that he read meticulously, accenting every word.

If you're not mighty careful, you'll have your head pulled under."

"Huh. . . But I don't quite see. If old man Carr is too money, who pays it out? Where's it comin' from?"

"I've tried to tell you. God help you if you try to keep old Joe Carr's head above water. He'll only drown you both. But you'd better run out there yourself, Mr. Keene, and take a look at things."

"Thanks. I'm going to do exactly that."

An Gerald Keene rose and took his hat. Simon Burwell got a glimpse of gray eyes that narrowed in the glare and of a mouth that was almost straight above a full lower lip. The knowing vice-president grinned a little.

"I think my visitor will go far, he muttered. 'I never even asked him what his occupation is. . . Huh. A man used to selling bonds'll not learn much about a ranch. How- ever . . . Old Judge Frame evidently takes an interest in him. . . And I'm well quit of the business. But he rose and walked to the long win- dow and watched his late caller as he left."

A half-hour later Gerald Keene plunged through the door of a hotel room, slammed the door and gripped the shoulder of a man who was sit- ting in a chair by the window watch- ing the world spin past between the toes of his boots on the sill.

"Duro," he said, "we're in a mess right up to our hocks. I swear I don't see any answer to it. . . His lean face lit and his eyes twinkled. There are eyes that gleam and eyes that twinkle. These twinkled. There is a difference. One has humor; the other has none. Stone studied his friend for a brief moment.

"Shoot," he said.

"Well, I gave old man Burwell my letter of introduction and he told me all he knew about the Hour-glass ranch. It seems that by my uncle's will half the ranch is mine; the other half belongs to his old partner, Joe Carr. He lived on the Hour-glass with his daughter and has made a fat failure of it. If either of us dies, the other gets the entire ranch. . . "What could he tell you about your uncle?" demanded Stone.

"Very little; only that he was a lovable old fellow and that he was mighty fond of Carr. Oh! He told me, too, that two men, Dustin and Goddard, in the past few years have bought up a lot of scrip and started a ranch next to the Hour-glass. They call it the Broken Spur. Bur- well says old man Carr drank a bit and is convinced that Dustin and Goddard have been systematically loot- ing the Hour-glass for years. Too bad about old man Carr's drinkin', isn't it?"

"It sure is. You can reform any- body but a systematic drinker. Go on."

"That's all. Burwell said there's a regular feud between the two ranches that reached the status of a Civil War on pay-days. I reckon old man Carr's been shootin' off his mouth too much after a drinkin' spell. You know how it is. They say a lot more of them ever started to say. Could you find out anything?"

"A little. While you were over at the bank I hunted up a man I know. You see, I used to work for the Lazy M in Nebraska. They were a member of the Stock-raisers Asso- ciation and that's a lucky bet in a cattle country. Just because Ne- braska won't carry over Free Silver's no reason her people should be sane in spots. Old Ben Lyon, who used to be their attorney, is prac- tice here now. I saw his shingle. I went to see him while you were with Burwell. . . on"

Stone thoughtfully rolled a cigar- ette and went on as though talking to himself.

"Ben says he's known Joe Carr since he was a pup. He says that, drunk or sober, old Carr is as straight as a lariat but that for some years he's been up against hard luck. Just plain up against it. About three years ago a pony slammed him against a buckin'-post in a corral and busted him out of his right leg. That's when he began to drink, I reckon. It busted him up a good deal. Not enough to keep him from ridin', but enough to make him a poor bet on a ranch that needs two good eyes. He's got a fine manager in one Frank Crews, but they just can't make both ends meet."

"What became of that bill the store sent us?"

"Oh, I sent it back marked in- sufficient funds."

The American flag of 15 stars and 15 stripes was in official use for 23 years, from 1795 to 1818.

Modern Marvels

Activity Of Science Has Narrowed Space And Shortened Time

The other day a gentleman, in Jasper, Alberta, talked to a friend on the S.S. Empress of Britain on the high seas. The conversation was sent by wires to New York, thence to London, and then transmitted through the radio channel back to the speaker. This hook-up was made in fast time, and the three minutes' talk was quite clearly heard.

Just recently, Premier Bennett, sitting in Ottawa, spoke briefly in dedication of a giant electric sign placed on the Grand Building opposite Canada House in London, Eng- land; and his words were written in a running line of illuminated electric letters at the foot of this same sign. A moment later the premier pressed a lever and the sign itself sprang to light.

These two incidents are typical of the marvel of the modern world, a marvel that has been achieved through the activity of science. Space has been narrowed and time short- ened. Nor has any of the glamor or excitement or the salt of satisfaction been taken out of living thereby.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Banker's Passport

Carries Engraved Portrait Clipped From Ten Dollar Bill

All passports bear a photograph of the holder, but there is one properly authorized and issued to a Canadian without his photograph—it carries an engraved portrait clipped from a $10 Bank of Montreal bill. The holder's name is Sir Frederick Wil- liams-Taylor, a manager and formerly general manager of the Bank of Montreal.

The circumstances under which Sir Frederick clipped the bill and at- tached the engraving to his passport application are not known, but this well known Canadian exercised the usual caution attributed to bankers by retaining the serial numbers in order that the bill might be replaced by a new note.—Financial Post.

Infantile Paralysis Vaccine

Canadian Research Worker Has Developed Vaccine For Dread Disease

Discovery of an apparently effective infantile paralysis vaccine was explained to 3,000 delegates and lay members at the closing session of the American Public Health Association convention.

Dr. Maurice Brodie, young Canadian research leader formerly of Ot- tawa, Ont., now connected with the New York City health department, described recent experiments with the poliovaccine vaccine which ap- parently has proved successful on a group of human volunteers, including Dr. William H. Park, head of the New York City health department research laboratories; Dr. Josephine Mead, Dr. Brodie himself and number of children.

Bees As Messengers

German Beekeeper Finds Them Better Than Carrier Pigeons

A German beekeeper has found new use for bees. They are no longer to be mere honey-gatherers and wax-builders, but messengers! He has written messages on scraps of paper and fastened them to the backs of bees. The bees have quickly brought them back to the hive, and never has a bee failed to deliver the goods. The beekeeper, Herr Bernhard Gubler, says bees are less likely than pigeons to fall into the wrong hands.

"I have called upon Thee for Thou wilt hear me O God; incline Thine ear unto me and hear my speech." Psalm 16:8.

"Ye people pour out your heart be- fore Him: God is a refuge for us." Psalm 42:8.

Whatever the care that breaks through, let it be that presseth thee, go tell to thy Father, put the matter into His hand and so shalt thou be freed from the dividing, pre-plexing care the world is full of. When thou are either to do or suffer anything go tell God about it, acquaint Him with it, ye burden Him with thy trouble, and thou hast done with caring. No more care, but quiet sweet diligence in thy duty and dependence on Him for the carrying of thy matters. Roll thyself and thy cares as one burden on thy God.—R. Leighton.

Rumania Has New Law

Men Must Have Government License To Grow Beard

The wearing of beards in Rumania is under government ban. Hereafter a permit will be required for such facial adornments. Uniformed gov- ernment couriers departed on horse- back for a tour of Rumanian villages to announce the new regulations. By bugle calls and drum-beatings they assembled village residents in the pub- lic square to announce the ruling. The regulation created consternation among members of the orthodox Jew- ish population, who, by Mosaic law, are not allowed to cut their beards.

Found in the woods from New Brunswick to Manitoba, the blue cohosh, a poisonous plant of the bar- berry family, is also known as pin- goose root, squaw root, yellow gin- senge, and blueberry root. The plant is extremely bitter to the taste and is hardly likely to be eaten, except by children tempted by the attractive appearance of the berry-like seeds.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doc- tors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuralgia or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dis- solve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It be- gins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show that Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Aspirin in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BE-FORE it touches the liquid, it disinte- grates.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

An Aspirin tablet starts to disinte- grate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—Aspirin tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.
